

Prepare to work with legendary leaders

TC has so many professors who have done amazing work in education, peace and human rights. I also really appreciate the prestige of the institution.”

—Sandy Joseph, International Comparative Education–International Educational Development–Peace and Human Rights

At TC you will be mentored by faculty who literally “wrote the book” — the original thinkers and field shapers. These wise guides will challenge and inspire you to become experts in your own right. Many of our 170 full-time faculty members hold critical research and leadership roles in Teachers College’s 30+ research centers and institutes. Their work influences how schools operate, how curricula are developed and how assessment systems can better serve both students and teachers. Students have boundless opportunities to conduct research and work with faculty to investigate front-line issues affecting children, families, schools and institutions everywhere.
